

Dr. Rummana Zaheer is an associate professor in the department of Economics, University of Karachi. Rummana obtained her Honours, Masters and Ph.D. degree from the University of Karachi and previously worked at many reputable institutions like Agha Khan Education Services Pakistan, ICMAP, and ICAP.

There are many workshops conducted on her behalf with the foreign facilitators likewise Peter Bell (USA) and Peter Moye (Kenya) on the Global Economic Curriculum project conducted by Phillips Academy, Andover, USA with collaboration of Agha Khan Education Services Pakistan. She worked under Barbara Toyne Welsh (British Educationalist) and received many appreciations and awards.

Her primary area of research interest in economics is with a particular focus on trade performance of Pakistan with different trading blocs in South Asia and the world. She has 39 researches get published in reputable HEC recognized, national, and international journals mainly focusing on trade with several other areas likewise agriculture, Micro Financing, women empowerment, economic integration, globalization, poverty, Islamic banking, and environmental economics. Moreover, she is the author of the book Economic Integration among SAARC countries published in Germany. She participated in many national and international conferences. Under her supervision, a couple of students achieved a M. Phil and Ph.D. degree.

Given her education management role, she served the department of Economics, University of Karachi as an acting chairperson 28-06-2023 to 07-07-2023, and currently is serving as an acting director, Directorate of Distant Education, University of Karachi from 27-05-2023 to 21-07-2023